Studio Policies

For new students, payment must be made before your first lesson. For returning students, payment for your next session must be made during the final week of your current session. You'll receive a reminder email at the beginning of that week.

A late fee of $14 per late week will be charged if payment is not made by the end of the week that it's due (and lessons will not resume until payment is made).

Lessons can be rescheduled as long as you notify Laura no less than 1 day in advance.

Same-day lesson cancellations will not be rescheduled, unless there's an emergency or if due to an unforeseen illness. Make-up lessons will take place within the current session whenever possible.

If there's a week that you won't be available during your session, we'll reschedule that lesson for another week within the same session (or otherwise if not possible, your session will be pushed out one week further). I can also make accommodations if you need to pause your session for certain reasons, such as an unforeseen medical issue that lasts several weeks.
